Almost 221,200 people entered residential, home or transition care in 2018–19

32% of people entering aged care moved into permanent residential care

More women entered permanent residential care than men

59%

Around 20% of people entering aged care used home care

Over half of people moving into permanent residential care were aged 85 years and over

The number of people entering home care has increased over the last 10 years by 74%